“Getting Lost in TechnoReality” Special Focus of Latest Edition of Healing Magazine

SCHNECKSVILLE, PA (May 30, 2018) - Could excessive use of social media or online games be harmful to the development of our children? The latest issue of Healing Magazine asks that provocative question in a special section, “Getting Lost in TechnoReality.” The magazine’s Spring/Summer edition was published today (May 30).

Healing Magazine is KidsPeace’s twice-yearly flagship publication, providing practical and clinical information to parents, educators and children’s professionals.

“Getting Lost in TechnoReality” offers a variety of perspectives on the issue of excessive screen use by kids – from activists who stress awareness to researchers who explore the science of screen use.
